

The Structure of the E.P.A

The EPA is governed by a Management Committee that consists of the elected National Officers (President, Secretary, Treasurer, Membership Secretary and Director of Promotions) together with elected representatives of our Regions and Affiliated Leagues.

In addition there are three appointed Officers (Chair, Umpire Commission, Chair, Coaching Commission and Chair, Playing Commission).

The EPA has sixteen Regional Associations which are responsible for the administration and playing activities within their defined areas.

There are still some non-regional areas within England and these are looked after in terms of membership requirements by the National Membership Secretary.

Our registered clubs are the lifeblood of our Association. They create the first impression of our sport and engage with new members who become the future club, regional or national players and officials.
